Response Function of Nuclear Matter at Finite Temperature

A.Gokalp, O.Yilmaz, K.Bozkurt *
Physics Department, Middle East Technical University
06531 Ankara, Turkey
S.Ayik
Physics Department, Tennesse Technological University
Cookeville, Tennessee 38505, USA.

Abstract

We study the temperature dependence of isovector giant dipole resonance in hot nuclear matter using Random Phase Approximation and Landau Fermi-liquid theory. The dependence of the damping width on the energy at fixed values of the temperature is investigated. It is observed that predictions of both approaches on damping width are in good agreement.

*e-mail : kutsalb@metu.edu.tr