High Intensity Proton Accelerator:future prospect

Yoshiharu Mori

KEK

High intensity proton accelerators for various applications such as neutron source, neutrino beam etc. have been under construction in several institutes in the world. The features and performance of these accelerators are summarized and the possible future of the high intensity proton accelerators will be discussed.